About the Speakers

Destiny Can Be Reversed!
The Story of a Man who Awakened to
His Life Mission from the Rock Bottom of Life

Nobuyuki Itoh

Operates an electrical maintenance company in Fukuoka, a real estate company that develops commercial and apartments sites mainly in Tokyo and Hokkaido. 30 years ago, he was arrested for being involved in a tax evasion case in a stock trade and experienced a great loss to say "life is over". He met Keiko Takahashi and began studying the Study of the Soul. His life after that has been nothing else but a reversal of destiny.

Introduced in Chapter 3, Reversing Destiny

In contrast to the past when Mr. Ito was being swept away by the force of a destructive and ruinous destiny, what is at work now in the reality related to him and his employees, is a force of destiny that improves the situation.

The brilliance of the individuals they relate with is increasing; happiness is being born; and there is deepened fullness of life.

Mr. Ito's life is emitting a completely different light compared to the past. Changes have occurred in what he seeks, what he wants to protect, and what he feels happiness.

A Guided Road of Life to Become a Politician:
Now Striving to Live Another Life Mission

Tomomi Nakamura

At the age of four, she lost her father in a car accident and grew up with a single parent. After experiencing hardships of gender discrimination, she aspired to become a politician, and have been active as a prefectural assembly member of Nagoya for over 32 years. She has made many achievements, such as establishing an ordinance for promoting gender equality and establishing a school social worker system.

Introduced in the Epilogue of How to Live the Best Life

Forty-one years ago, in 1977, when Mrs. Nakamura was a sophomore in high school, she attended one of my lectures. Burdened with the condition of a fatherless family, the young Nakamura was brought up so that she was capable of doing everything by herself. Even though she acted courageously, she was unable to withstand that much pressure. Unconsciously, she searched for a more certain foundation for living.

Many questions welled up like twinges of pain: "Why did my father die? Why do I have such a life?" No matter who she asked these questions about her existence, no one could give her an answer.
